Successful relationships don't just happen. Proactive couples, families, and friends invest in the quality of their lives together by using premarital counseling. In premarital counseling couples learn essential relationship skills, prevent future problems, and create a long-term plan to keep their love strong. This class is for you and your partner or someone you know if...

- You have been in a long-term relationship and you both want to learn new tools, but are not interested in marriage at this point
- You have not had good relationship role models and do not want to repeat unproductive patterns
- You're in a good relationship, but want to improve it
- You see a future with your partner and want to make sure you're on the right path
- You have certain topics that keep coming up but can't seem to be resolved

It could also be that while thinking about your future together with your partner that conflicts and struggles may surface that both of you never imagined or encountered before. This might bring some doubts about long-term commitment without an understanding about what are normal relationship challenges and what are not.

The consequences caused by not investing in premarital education could be much harder and more expensive to treat than they are to prevent. It's easy to prioritize other expenses instead. Regrettably, the part that often gets lost in planning to get married is the actual relationship. We develop bad habits that we take with us from one relationship into the next. But the good news is that if bad habits can be formed, so can good habits!

You'll learn the essential tools of a successful relationship

- How to show each other love and respect
- How to communicate effectively
- How to set powerful intentions that will help your relationship grow
- What your partner really needs to feel loved—and how to give it to them
- Real ways to maintain the spark
- How to handle inevitable conflict constructively
- Ways to align around a common vision and values (money, kids, goals, and more)
- Practical communication tools for talking about the hard stuff
- The hidden needs beneath your fights
- How to support each other's hopes and dreams for the future
- How to prevent certain future surprises from your spouse

Class Dates

Yearly February-April, May-July, and August-October on the 2nd and 4th Saturday of the month from 4 pm-6 pm. There are no classes November-January. Registration opens 4 weeks prior to each class and closes 1 week before the class starts. Your presence in class is highly important. A group dynamic is formed that helps create an environment for growth and change. If you are absent from the class this dynamic may suffer and affect the experience of you and other members of the group. Therefore, Mrs. Finch would ask that you make this commitment a top priority for the duration of the class. The class involves a 6 week commitment (2nd and 4th Saturday of the month, meeting 6 times, from 4pm-6pm).
